LQG September program

Applebee Quilters

Monday, September 11, 2006 • 7:00 pm

This evening's program features a local small quilt group called the Applebee Quilters. This group consists of twelve active and retired teachers from Lincoln Public Schools. These ladies have a unique plan for nurturing their love of quilting and are a prolific group. They will share quilts that they have made in monthly projects and for annual Christmas celebrations over the past fifteen years.

There are a few spots open for September LQG Class

Tuesday, September 12 • 9 - 12 noon
Sheridan Lutheran Church

Jeanne Starck will share her special techniques and tricks for making memory quilts from T-shirts. These quilts are a wonderful way to create warm and lasting memories from vacations, high school or college, sports...anything where you may have "Done that, got the t-shirt!" Jeanne will have backing material at class for purchase if you wish to get it there. The class will be limited to 20 people so register early. Please send checks made out to LQG and a self addressed, stamped envelope to Becky Haynes at 5720 Caymus Court, Lincoln, NE 68526. Additional information will be provided to registrants.

President's Message

Did you blink? Just like that, summer is almost over!! Seems like the quilt show was just a couple weeks ago. And what a quilt show it was!!! Congratulations and thanks to Sheila and Carolyn for a job well done! A big thank you to everyone who worked at the show!

As I write this, September is almost here! I'm looking forward to fall. I love the colors, the nice days and cool nights, the harvest moon! And most importantly, it's time for guild to start up. I miss seeing my guild friends in the summer. I see some of you at Quilt Nebraska. Others I don't see for the entire summer. I'm looking forward to seeing you all again at guild. See you in September!

Minutes of the Lincoln Quilters Guild – May 8, 2006

College View Seventh-Day Adventist Church – Lincoln, Nebraska

The May meeting of the Lincoln Quilters Guild was called to order at 7:00 PM by President Linda Loker.

Vice President Linda Gapp introduced the evening's speaker, Bonnie Kucera. Bonnie, who is a member of Lincoln Quilters Guild, gave a very entertaining presentation "What Was I Thinking?" and included a trunk show of many of her creations.

The business meeting followed.

Minutes of the April Guild meeting were approved as printed in the Plain Print.

The Treasurer's report was also in the Plain Print. No questions were raised; the report was accepted as printed.

Announcements – Kate Laucomer. Refreshment committee for this evening was Sandy Gruntorad, Chair, Mary Dittenber, Sally Gowin, Bev Hillman, Barbara Kitsmiller, Rebecka Schafer, Betty Tenhulzen and Gwen Frans.

- Thank you notes were read from the Beaty family for the cuddle quilt their son received when admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital and Nao Nomura for the Guild scholarship awarded her.
- The International Quilt Study Center is pleased to announce new Saturday hours this summer. The IQSC will be open for drop-in visitors from 10:00 AM – 2 PM on Saturdays from June 5th – September 1st. Drop by and catch up on the exciting events happening at the IQSC! Parking will be a breeze! Also groundbreaking for the new study center will be Friday, May 12th at 3:00 PM at 33rd and Holdrege.
- Sew/Quilt/Embroidery Festival will be held at the Quest Center in Omaha on June 15, 16, and 17th. More information and discount coupons are at the information table.
- Membership renewals are due June 1. If membership dues are not paid by July 1, you will not be included in the yearbook or receive the September newsletter.
- A note from Sandi McMillan and Vogie's staff: "We are planning a 'pop-in' Friday, May 26th and Saturday, May 27th during shop hours. I know this is a holiday weekend but it was the only time we could come up with that could possibly work as a surprise for her. June is not leaving the industry but Vogies, the retail shop will be closing. We thought it would be fun to 'pop-in' during this time to wish her luck and thank her for the past 32 years. If you are not able to join us during this time, a card or e-mail would be great."

- Chris Taylor has been awarded a blue ribbon for best use of color at the Denver Quilt Show.

New Business

No new business was presented.

Old Business

A. Auction Proceeds – It has been determined that 10% of the quilt show auction profits (after expenses) be donated to Habitat for Humanity.

While the Guild's Executive Board can authorize expenditures of $500 or less, if the auction profits are over $5000, that expenditure would require approval of the Guild membership. Sheila Green moved, Lou Lessman seconded that regardless of the amount, 10% of the quilt show auction profits be donated to Habitat for Humanity. The motion carried unanimously.

B. Cuddle Quilts – Anita Ahrens reminded members that the need for cuddle quilts does not stop because of summer. Workshops will continue during summer months, if anyone makes quilts at home, the quilts can be dropped off at the Resource Center or contact Anita for pick-up. Three hundred sixty nine quilts were distributed this past year! A "thank you" letter was received from a Habitat for Humanity family who received a quilt.

C. President Linda Loker presented information about the new State Fair award that will be sponsored by Lincoln Quilters Guild. It will be for "Best Contemporary Quilt" – such as a new interpretation of a traditional design, or using contemporary or nontraditional fabrics for a particular design, a new technique or approach. The piece can be, but does not have to be an original design, may be any size and chosen from any Lot 20 entry.

"Such as" gives people an idea of what sort of thing we mean, but leaves options wide open.

"New technique" is purposely left open for what may be new and innovative in the future. Stack and whack, stained glass, even paper piecing have all been new techniques in our recent past. It is hard to know what may be the new idea of the future – it could be on someone's design wall or in their sketchbook or just a vague idea in their head at this time.

"Embellishments" or anything else specific would not be included in the description. They could be a component of a contemporary design but if the description is too specific, it will narrow down the possibilities for new innovations.

Quilt Show Reports

- Sheila Green advises that there are still opportunities available to sign up and volunteer time to work at the show. Volunteers are encouraged to wear hats and their nametags while doing their activity. Members are also encouraged to patronize the food vendor while visiting or working at the show. A special feature of this show will be a display of Hoffman quilts. Thirty-nine quilts were turned in this evening for display at Quiltfest 2006.
- Shirley Chaffin, Quilt mom, reports that there has been tremendous support of ticket sales but there are a substantial number of tickets still with members. If members have tickets that will not be sold, Shirley would appreciate them being turned in so they are available for sale at the show.
- Jo Anne Bair reports that the opening reception Garden party will be held Thursday evening, June 8th for members and a guest. Garden party committee members have been surveying members this evening to get a count of those planning on attending.

- Vicky Skuodas reports that 85-90 quilts have been donated for the auction. Quilts may still be donated from now through the opening reception.

Mini Raffle – Elizabeth Sterns and Joyce Donlan. This evening's receipts were the year's high of $124.15! Total for the year is $763.20. Quilts made by LaDonna Pankoke and Jean Barney were won by Jo Baxter and Martha Lane respectively. A book donated by Merna Phillips was won by Jan Stehlik and a fabric pack from Prairie Star Quilt Shop in Oakland was won by Merna Phillips. Elizabeth and Joyce introduced Dana Atteberry and Sue McKee who will be the new Mini Raffle chairpersons.

Installation of Officers was conducted by Nominations Committee members Martha Lane, Gloria Smith and Lucille Lenz. Officers installed include:

- Kate Laucomer – President
- Judy Lane – President Elect
- Becky Haynes – Vice President
- Cathie Miller – Vice President Elect
- Danielle Hecker – Treasurer
- Kimberly Shelley – Treasurer Elect
- Sharlee Green – Secretary and
- Linda Loker – Advisor.

Kate Laucomer presented Linda Loker a quilt top of appliqued and pieced leaves, made by current Board members and committee chairs as a token of appreciation for Linda's service as president this past year.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned to Show and Tell.

Santa Socks

It is time to start working on your Santa Socks. Maybe if we think "winter", the weather will "seam" cooler.

So get out those winter fabrics and start stitching. Look for the Santa Sock table at the next Guild meeting. We will have patterns and fabric to help you get started. This would also be a good time to donate fabric, lace, etc.

Questions? Call Gloria Smith at 489-0062 or Sandra Gruntorad at 423-5828

Volunteers WANTED!

Discover Nebraska is a rewarding volunteer opportunity with the Lincoln Quilters

Guild! Share your love of quilting and the history of Nebraska with fourth grade classrooms in Lincoln and the surrounding area. We have been enthusiastically received in 84 classrooms this past year. No special skills are required as you help the children in making the Discover Nebraska paper quilt. Each presentation takes two hours and you may help as your schedule allows.

For more information about Discover Nebraska, go to our website www.DiscoverNebraska.org

Please join our loyal group of volunteers to find out more on Wednesday, September 13, 10 am-noon, All Saint's Lutheran Church (82nd & Pioneers). We'll be working on classroom packets, have an informational session, and a pot luck luncheon. Questions?

Wallhangings for Habitat for Humanity

Welcome a family into their new Habitat for Humanity home with your gift of a "home" themed quilted wallhanging.

Thanks to Sally Basham, La Von Bridwell, Jean Barney, Irene Culbertson and Sheila Green for the wallhangings they have donated to this project! About 8-10 are needed each year. They should be about 18" x 24" your choice of technique and design. Please attach a hanging sleeve. A quilt label will be provided for you to sign when you bring your donation to an LQG meeting. A charitable donation receipt is available.

In the past year, LQG members have also donated 15 bed-sized quilts to Habitat! Thanks for your generosity.

Doll Quilt Exhibition Opens October 6 at Great Plains Art Museum

Lincoln, Nebraska, August 3, 2006:

The quilt exhibition Reading, Writing and a Rhythmic Stitch: Quilts from the Mary Ghormley Collection will be on view at the Great Plains Art Museum in Lincoln, Nebraska from October 6, 2006 through March 18, 2007. More than 40 examples of nineteenth and early twentieth century doll quilts will be displayed with antique doll cribs and cradles.

One of Mary Ghormley's Doll Quilts

Children were thought of as miniature adults before the late 1600s. As views of childhood changed, children's books, toys and games became popular. Doll quilts started to appear in the early years of the 1800s,

Doll quilts are some of the most endearing of quilts. Made by mothers for a young daughter's playtime, they embody love and care. Young girls made them as they learned to sew. As collector Mary Ghormley observes, "Perhaps the dearest of these quilts are those on which we see the childish imprint, youthful concentration in every stitch."

Mary Ghormley's Doll Quilt Collection contains more than 200 quilts made between 1800 and 1950. Collected over a forty-year period from all over the United States, it is one of only a few such quilt collections in the world. Mrs. Ghormley will share her knowledge in a lecture on October 18, 2006 at 3:30 P.M. at the museum. This lecture is part of the Paul A. Olson Seminars in Great Plains Studies series. The lecture will be followed by a reception and gallery talk.

The Great Plains Art Museum is located at 1155 Q Street in Lincoln. Hours are Monday-Friday, 10-5, Sunday 1:30-5, closed Mondays.

The Astrology of Quilters

(based on an article by Luana Rubin, McCall's Quilting, October 2004)

Virgo

August 23 through September 22

The Virgo quilter is likely to be quietly working behind the scenes on quilt appraisals and restorations, or supporting others who have a more flamboyant character. Their attention to detail and organizing abilities enable them to create quilts that would give the rest of us migraines.

Snail Trails, Broken Dishes and a Streak of Lightning: Evidence of Quilt Study at the IQSC

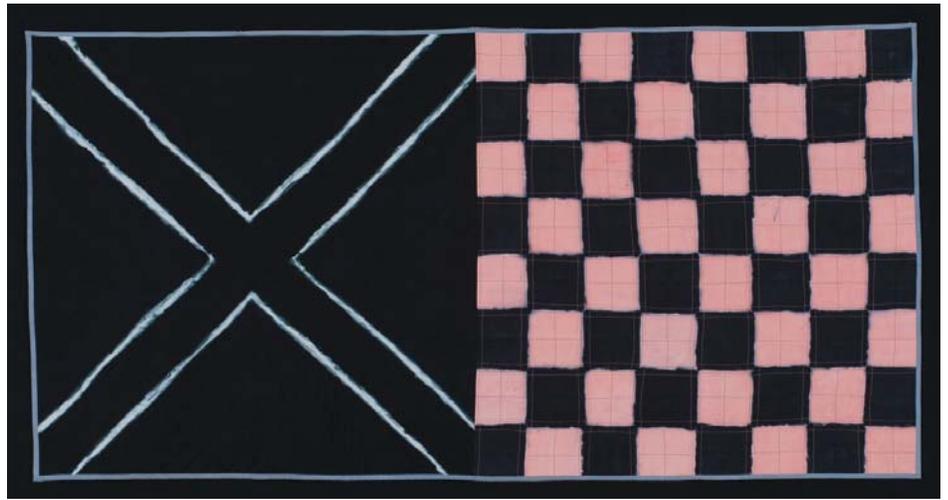

Lincoln, Nebraska, August 3, 2006:

Artist and educator Mary Anne Jordan immersed herself in the collection at the International Quilt Study Center during her appointment as one of the 2005-2006 IQSC Visiting Scholars. The results of her observations and inspiration will be featured in a new exhibition at the Robert Hillestad Textiles Gallery at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The exhibition includes new work from Jordan along with selections of the International Quilt Study Center quilts examined during her research.

In Snail Trails, Broken Dishes and a Streak of Lightning: Evidence of Quilt Study at the IQSC Mary Anne Jordan's new works respond to selected African American and Amish quilts to generate bold new designs on fabric. Jordan describes her latest pieces, saying, "I use large scale bold shapes and colors to add my own vision and hand to the work that has inspired me. The work is made of fabrics that I have dyed, printed, and painted. A human mark is obvious... I draw by hand and measure by eye...and allow the process of fabric dyeing and mark making to be obvious in the work. I am very interested in making "beautiful" quilts from fabrics that might be considered ruined: a kind of positive reaction to our cynical and impersonal world, a secret appreciation of life; a way of finding beauty in the muck."

Jordan goes on to describe some of her thoughts during the development of this series: "I was initially intrigued by the bold visual elements and color of these two broad groupings of American quilts. There is a kind of complex simplicity that attracted me to further investigate how the makers made their design decisions, compositions and the process by which they completed their quilts."

"I am also very intrigued by the fact that these two disparate genres (African American and Amish) seem to have so much in common visually. Are the visual commonalities a result of similarities in culture? How does the process of making effect the visual outcome? What happens as a result of the process and what happens as a result of conscious decision making? What part does socioeconomics play in the finished quilts? Did they make the quilts primarily to keep their families warm? Were they concerned about the appearance of the finished quilt? What was the significance of a finished quilt (personal, religious, practical etc.)?"

"These are just a few of the questions that intrigue me, and most of them cannot be answered directly, maybe only pondered. In spite of that, these questions have helped me to develop a new body of work using the pieces I studied at the IQSC as a resource and inspiration."

Mary Anne Jordan, Associate Professor of Textiles at the University of Kansas, has taught workshops at Arrowmont, Haystack, Splitrock, University of Iowa, and the Quilt and Surface Design Symposium. Her work has been shown nationally and internationally in Japan, Poland, South America and Canada. To learn more about Mary Anne Jordan and view samples of her work, visit <http://www.people.ku.edu/~majordan>.

Quilt Challenge coming to the LQG September meeting

It is time for another LQG Challenge! The details of the challenge will be shared at the guild business meeting in September. You will be able to purchase a fat quarter of fabric for your challenge quilt following the business meeting. Sixty fat quarters of fabric will be available for purchase on a first-come-first-serve basis at a cost of $5.00 each.

The challenge planning committee is excited about this project and hopes that guild members will enjoy being involved with this year's challenge. We are looking forward to telling you all about the 2006-07 Challenge!
